

Currency name: Lumin

Slogan: Illuminating Tomorrow, One Dream at a Time

Explanation:

Extracting the dreams of citizens as a payment method, citizens can extract their dreams and put them in a certain orb that encapsulates a unique, surreal scene that reflects the dreams and desires of its possessor. The emotional intensity of the dream determines the currency's value. While nightmares used to be less pleasant at this point of time nightmares are worth a hundred dreams.

In the dream exchange markets citizens can trade their Lumin for goods, services, or even experience the dreams of others.

The government imposes Dream Taxation, requiring citizens to at least contribute a portion of their dreams to fund public projects. Those who resist may find themselves facing penalties or even lose the ability to access certain dream related services.

Examples of services:

Dream entertainers: performers who can manipulate their dreams for public entertainment.

Dream educators: Who teach citizens about responsible dream usage, the history, and the ethical implications.

Dream Consultants: Professionals in the field of psychology and dream analysis. They assist individuals in crafting dreams with higher emotional values.

Dream Artisan: Dreamers highly skilled in crafting dreamscapes for those seeking unique experiences.
